Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hall et al. in view of Pong et al.

Hall et al. shows all of the limitations of the claims except for specifying including the make and model of vehicle on the order for customer identification and the step of a menu signal being sent prior to an order signal.

Hall et al. shows a method and apparatus for processing orders from customers in a mobile environment. A Mobile Customer Premises Equipment (MCPE) 105 (transmitter, PDA) is used to communicate with the supplier (receiver of the order). From column 2, lines 51-52, "the order includes customer identifying information". Figure 6 goes through the ordering process (codes included).

Brown et al. teaches a system for specifying an electronic food menu on a data processing system. Column 7, lines 51-56 show that the menu receiving unit can be a PDA 52 in a mobile environment. Figure 6a and step 126 in figure 7B provide a customized menu signal prior to the order signal in order to provide the customer with better food menu choices.

Based on the teaching of Brown et al., it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to modify the Hall et al. ordering processing system to incorporate the providing a customized menu signal prior to the order signal in order to provide the customer with better food menu choices.

Pong et al. teaches, figure 1, an automatic refueling station where (column 6, lines 38-44) make and model are used as identifying information for the vehicle and a customer account number is used to identify the customer. This information is used to better serve the customer in a POS environment.

Based on the teaching of Pong et al., it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to modify the Hall et al. system to include the customer's vehicle make and model as part of the customer identifying information in order to better serve the customer in a POS environment.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to all claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Rowe et al. and Hashimoto show systems of interest.
